COMBEL

Letter from the Editorial Director

“Art is play,” as Paul Klee said. That is why at Combel we conceive it as an essential tool in education and always set aside a large space for it in our catalogue.

However, we are not dedicating this section of the catalogue to offering specific art education to our audience. These are not purely non-fiction books. Our goal is to help families, schools and bookshops guide children on their route towards intellectual development, creative potential and graphic culture.

Many studies on neuroeducation support the theory that artistic skills activate all the neurons involved in learning, including those of language. As an example, the Museum of Children’s Art in Oakland has published a list detailing twenty reasons why art is so important in children’s learning.

That said, a publishing house cannot sustain itself with good intentions alone. The creative embodiment of the book is vital. And just as a project begins with an idea that is taken up and developed, the idea behind the book With this Line is to set out a path to be followed. Luisa Vera, inspired by the artistic technique of two creative geniuses, Paul Klee and Saul Steinberg, combines art and play in this book in which we follow the adventures of a line that appears on the cover and does not leave us until the very last page.

And if harmony is fundamental in the plastic arts, it goes without saying how essential it is in music. Therefore, thanks to one of our authors, Oriol Garcia Molsosa, we discover music with a new series, offering an invitation to learn about musical instruments from a young age. We are pleased to present the first title, Violin, with the idea of continuing the series to look at other instruments with which boys and girls usually begin their musical education.

Continuing with the art theme, we are keen to tell you about the creations of some of the best artists around right now that we are lucky to have in our catalogue. Let’s start with Guridi, who inspires editors and readers around the world with the expressiveness of his art. With just a few brushstrokes, this author and illustrator explains to us how play, imagination and children's creativity work, and draws us into his adventures to really make us think with a big smile on our faces.

*Another extraordinary creator is Cristina Losantos who is currently absorbed in the "I Spy with My Little Eye" project, a very special collection that will not leave anyone indifferent. This is a series of search and find books that could well be considered albums. In each title she creates a world, following the tradition of great artists like Sempé or Steinberg himself. In the first book in the series, The City, the author shares her unique vision of life in streets and neighbourhoods, where the inhabitants are busy with their everyday tasks. The scenes take place throughout a whole day to capture in great detail human behaviour in situations that we experience on a daily basis. We see moments that are as ordinary as they are surreal, full of humour and that large dose of tenderness that characterises all of her work.*

And since tenderness heals everything, we have to tell you about the latest book from Mar Benegas in our catalogue. It is called "Mommies", a collection of board books with fantastic illustrations by Gareth Lucas. Verse by verse, they stimulate attachment, interaction and linguistic development in young children. We can also announce her next title in advance, illustrated by Ana G. Lartitegui, in which rhymes and their many combinations produce some fantastic Kitchen Monsters.

We take this opportunity to congratulate the author for the Cervantes Chico 2022 prize received in recognition of her poetic work.

*Finally, and moving onto something completely different, poetry, art and literature come together in the latest title in the Agus & Monsters series, Salvador, where Dr. Brot causes Emma, the school librarian, to get lost in Salvador Dalí's surreal world of memories. During the rescue mission, Lidia and Agus discover the avant-garde movements, those early-20th-century artistic currents that transformed art and the way we looked at it forever with their playful spirit.*

Quisicosas

A brand new board book series by Mariana Ruiz Johnson to let toddlers imagination take over. Quisicosas takes a fresh look at everyday objects. Playing with the shapes of a potty and a pencil, each book allows young children to explore, use their perception skills and make sense of the world around them. While guessing which are the possible uses of such ordinary objects, the books work on vocabulary, creativity, teamwork and empathy. Thus a potty is transformed into a cooking plate, a hat or a sailing boat. A pencil becomes a flower and space rocket or containers for precious things. In the end, the little seekers will find out which is their most common use!

Cris the Cricket

An enchanting sound button book written by Oriol Garcia Molsosa with the adorable characters from Gusti.

Cris the Cricket wishes to be a composer but has run out of inspiration. He always sings the same song: a boring and repetitive cric-cric. One day he decides to plant his cric-cric as a seed. In order to make it grow, he asks the animals that pass by for help.

Marlow the Sparrow and many others help him to water the seed. And, little by little, spread by spread, the seed becomes a song...

Press the buttons to hear the different animal sounds specially set to music on each page and sing along as the music plays in a joint finale.

Like Cat and Dog

If you have fur babies at home or just little ones that are crazy about cats and dogs, they will love this lift-the-flap book written by Teresa Porcella and illustrated by Santo Pappalardo.

Puppies and kittens are the main characters of the book. Each spread shows an everyday object and a clue of what might have happened after the pets' interaction. When kids lift the flap, they find the furry cuddles' reactions towards the item. How many differences between dogs and cats can you spot?

Along its pages, the book reflects the tendency for the relationship between the two species to be antagonistic. However, they will find out that while puppies and kittens are very different, they both are great companions and can become furry close friends.

A lovely gift
for animal fans!

With this Line

After Inside the Museum Mazes, Luisa Vera has created another eye-catching lift-the-flap book for little artists. A tribute to one of the most famous drawing techniques of the 20th century!

As its title suggests, Luisa uses the continuous line to show the path of a pencil stroke from morning to bedtime. With this drawing technique, a single line remains unbroken from beginning to end while the drawing tool stays in uninterrupted contact with the surface of the paper during the entire length of the book.

Following the pencil stroke, little artists can seek and find 10 items in every spread: from toys and animals to space ships and family members. By way of epilogue, readers will also find some short information about the artists who inspired the author to create this arty story: Paul Klee and Saul Steinberg. And for the impatient, an answer key to the 70 items is included at the end of the book.

Disconcerting Stories

The history of music is full of amusing, dramatic and legendary little anecdotes. Those curiosities have been perpetuated over centuries. They bring us closer to the masters and give the best composers of all time a more human dimension.

In this new book by Oriol Garcia Molsosa, young readers will find five stories based on well-known anecdotes about Purcell, Verdi, JS Bach, Scarlatti and Benny Goodman. There is something for everyone: animals, jazz, desserts, great composers and even kings are involved. And all the anecdotes have something in common: they all are true. But the truth is that every single story also hides a little rotten lie.

Disconcerting Stories is an invitation to pay attention, find the discordant and play "truth or lie" with the funny characters created by Mercè Galí to represent them. To make the experience even more delightful, each story includes a QR to listen to the musical fragment to which it refers. A coda to enjoy every line and note of the book with all the senses.

The Ants War

This new adventure is above all a plea against all wars. Wars, not one! Especially not in the Blue Forest! Don't worry. Bitmax, the helper will bring peace and joy with a simple crazy plan. Everything starts with a piece of candy. By a simple oversight and total carelessness, Evo creates a massive misunderstanding between the black ants and the red ants. And the sides clash to claim the sweet delicacy. Having food for many days to come means the world for an anthill. Despite Bitmax and Baba's best efforts, everything fails, the dialogue is a disaster and there is no way for the ants armies to reach an agreement. So much so that they end up declaring war. But Bitmax & Co are determined to stop this madness and find peace at any cost. And what better than a bigger threat to unite both armies? What if an anteater turns up to be the best prevention for war?

Salvador

A new monstrous adventure that delves into the artistic avant-gardes of the early 20th century through the univers of Salvador Dalí. As could not be otherwise, it starts in the library. Emma, our beloved librarian, has lost her way in the world of Dalí's memories because of Dr. Brot.

Agus, Lidia and the monsters will dive into the hallucinatory world of the genius to rescue her. In this trip, they will meet writers of the stature of André Breton, Tristan Tzara, Pepín Bello and Federico García Lorca, the film director Luis Buñuel, or the prolific Pablo Picasso. As Copons & Fortuny know, a good cameo is one of the best ways to enrich the plot. But in this case this resource is also used to show and explain the artistic avant-gardes. In particular, the movement of Surrealism.

From adventure to adventure, chapter by chapter, Agus and his friends perceive that art is as alive as language, in constant evolution until today. Specially, the avant-gardes. They changed everything and meant a monstrous revolution in the field of art.

What a Cheek!

This foot tall board book has a large die-cut circular hole, perfect for toddlers to hold up and have their faces show through. The pages feature outlined characters to play choosing who they want to be: fairy or witch, Bad Wolf or Little Red Riding Hood, apple or worm, egg or chicken, pirate and sailor... This is up to each little kid to decide who they are. Besides playing identities, at the end of the book there is a suggested activity for children: to make a photocall to share pics with family and friends.

Habits

Sometimes getting dressed, tying the shoes, acquiring table manners, sharing toys or taking turns in the park playground can be tricky for young children. But thanks to the new concertina series by Martí and Salomó, the little ones will develop good habits in a fun and positive way. One side of the book shows good results from daily routines. The other side is a humorous view of the not-so-good results, both aimed at encouraging children to improve their habits at their own pace.

Because there are always two sides of a story and there is always room for improvement, books can be read as long zigzags, displayed on a desk or hung as a garlands to decorate their rooms.

The Amazing Creepy Granny House

Meritxell Martí and Xavier Salomó have created a not-too-spooky lift-the-flap book that promises hours of entertainment for the little ones.

This title shares the memorable story of a grandson visiting her granny to spend a very special evening together. To his surprise, when the kid arrives in the old Victorian style house, there is note for him: a mouth-watering snack awaits in the kitchen.

After having a delicious eye-popping chocolate smoothy, the young boy chases the kitten room by room until dusk. By the time the full-moon is coming, the big date approaches and so does the a punchy dénouement that gives a unique twist on the haunted house cliché. Readers will love exploring the rooms, guessing what is beneath each flap and finding details and surprises hidden on every page.

I am as Hungry as a Dragon!

With the structure of a chained story telling, this lift-the-flap book with pop-ups plays with the saying that the big fish always eat small fish.

Using simple rhyme, Marta Benegas combines fun riddles with paper engineering and the amazing illustrations of Anna Süßbauer. It starts with a frog who eats one mosquito from Quito and keeps telling a daring hyperbolic story of the animal food chain spread by spread. At the end, a huge dragon swallows them all, turns the book into coal until the tale... is done!

Tree Unfolded

An ode to trees involves different ways of looking at them. That's the main purpose of the new lift-the-flap book written by Teresa Franquesa and lavishly illustrated by Sigrid Martínez.

Maybe a single tree does not make a forest. But through this book, children will be able to discover that a tree is a habitat itself, feeds animals, shelters us, provides shade, produces fruits and seeds, draws landscapes and inspires paintings and poems and adventures. On top of all that, a tree is a living being to love and care of. To stimulate kids' curiosity, every spread has a big flap with a cut-out in the shapes of optical instruments. An invitation to observe close up how the life of the tree unfolds.

At the end of the book, the reader will find a step-by-step guide for planting a tree

A Walk Around the Planet

A Walk Around the Planet is an invitation for young children to build a more sustainable world with their little hands. Thanks to simple questions and movable board pieces, toddlers will get involved in the story created by Martí and Salomó.

The puzzle-like board pieces and die-cuts of every scenery invite the reader to an on-and off-the-page play experience, while cleaning up rivers, protecting the ocean's floor, building windmills and solar panels, helping animals in the savannah, replanting a forest or building a bridge.

What Do We Feed

The planet is in peril, and we cannot restore it without transforming our food system.

According to World Wide Fund for Nature, what we eat has changed the planet. Across the globe forests have been devastated to make space to rear cattle and to grow crops to feed livestock, while our oceans become barren as they are trawled and overfished. Food production is not only the greatest driver of wildlife loss, it contributes to climate change: about a quarter of global greenhouse gas emissions are associated with food.

What We Feed explains to children how we can all make little changes to our diet to help us eat healthily and sustainably, in a way which is good both for both us and for the environment.

What an Artist! Frank Lloyd Wright

The new title in the “What an Artist!” collection invites young readers to take an interactive journey through the work of architect Frank Lloyd Wright through pop-ups, lift-up flaps, windows and many more surprises.

This book traces Wright’s career from his origins, the history of his family, his childhood and the influence of Froebel’s games, to his most iconic designs such as the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum or Fallingwater. This is a tour that explains the basics behind all his work: the importance of landscape, materials and the unity of each building with nature and the space they inhabit.

Toribio & García

Can an elephant who is afraid of mice ever become best friends with a tiny little mouse? Find out in this short chapter book delightfully well-written by Ricardo Alcántara, and amazingly illustrated by Sophia Touliatou.

Toribio & García break the myth and present the story of an unlikely friendship between a gentle and observant elephant, Toribio, and an adventurous mouse named García.

It just so happens that García met Toribio one day. Since then, they have been inseparable and go together everywhere. And although they see the world in a different way, they enjoy each other's company and have fun learning from each other.

In one single book you will find three stories: Good Friends, Toribio' Small Eyes and The Costume Contest. Which is your favorite?

As They Are, So Are They!

We are often dazzled by what other people are like and the things they have or what they do (their hairstyle, glasses, clothes, skills...) and we think we would like to be like them. As They Are, So Are makes it clear that this could happen to all of us, that it is neither good or bad and that, in fact, other people also like the things we do, what we have, the way we are...

Written by the bestseller author Jaume Copons and illustrated by Gusti, the characters in this story shine a light on children's insecurities and jealousies, making us think about them. Because in the end, we are who we are, right?

Salvador Tierra and the Gold Hollow

Salvador Tierra has always existed and always will. Time passes very slowly for him. His age is equivalent to eleven years and his mission is to take care of the planet. He knows the Earth like the back of his hand, can speak with animals, can predict the weather and has lived through every period of history. Dr Pattel, the man who knows him best, charges Meritus Moodle with tracking down this unique individual. According to Pattel, everything you seek is also looking for you, so Salvador Tierra is probably waiting for him. Thus, Meritus Moodle drops everything and heads for the Peruvian Amazon on a fascinating adventure that will change his life.
